Elevated Room Design

Lafayette Custom Interiors is a one-stop shop for all things home

“I love that every project is unique.”

Amy Smith, owner of Lafayette Custom Interiors, is up for any design challenge. “Each of my clients have very different lifestyles, budgets, and aesthetic preferences,” she says. “This provides me the opportunity to explore new ideas and discover new vendors on a daily basis.”

Amy came to West Lafayette from New Jersey in 2008. After attending Purdue and earning a Bachelor of Arts in Interior Design, she stayed in the area and began working alongside Stephanie Stephan, the owner of Stephan Design Custom Interiors.

“I worked with Stephanie for several years before opening Lafayette Custom Interiors in 2018,” Amy says. Today, she calls her business a “one-stop-shop” for all things home.

“Whether you are building a new home, remodeling an existing home, or just redecorating, there are many moving parts to consider,” she says. “We have so many resources under one roof and can offer expertise so that our clients feel confident in their decisions.”

Lafayette Custom Interiors creates design plans for single rooms as well as entire homes. “These plan sets include drawings to communicate the design intent as well as specifications on every item needed to complete your space,” Amy explains. “This provides our clients with purchasing flexibility as they can utilize our implementation services or purchase items independently over time as their budget allows.”

The design plans Amy creates can also serve as a project pricing tool. “Many of our clients simply hand their plan set over to a contractor and receive a very accurate quote as all details have already been determined,” she says.

In addition to the interior design services, Amy’s business also sells custom window treatments, furniture, wallpaper, fabric, lighting, and area rugs.

Finishes and fixtures can update a master bathroom, like in this West Lafayette home. The end result is an elevated space without the mess of a full remodel.

The black subway tile is a bit unexpected and provides a nice contrast among the more neutral finishes in this family bathroom.
